MORGAN MAN, WAR CORRESPONDENT, TRAVELER

Among the many men and women of Morgan county who have gone forth into the world and made noble records and achievements, perhaps none in recent years have gone ahead of A. M. "Tony" Easterling. He was born in the home where Wyck Cottle now lives at Cottle post office. His father was Holt Easterling who moved to Kearney, Nebraska in 1904 and took his family. He lived in Kansas for 30 years and accumulated a good deal of property. He then sold out and went to Oregon. Tony Easterling became an Associated Press correspondent and spent many years going into countries where there were wars, disaster, revolutions and things to write about. He spent 12 years as a war correspondent and writer in Europe, in South America, Argentina, Russia, England and all over the world.

He married a German girl in Buenos Aires, lived in New York five years. He covered the news on a hundred fighting fronts—in Europe, South America and on battlefields where he saw piles of dead men and came out alive from many tight spots.

Some years ago Herbert Hammond received a letter from which read a son. His father was a brother to Herbert's mother.

His father had a brother named Morgan Easterling who was deputy clerk in Morgan county. Custer who lived on Jones Creek at that time remembers the family well. He said Morgan (Continued on page four)

MORGAN PEOPLE SEND 3RD TRUCK TO FLOOD AREA

A third wholesale company van loaded with food and clothing donated by Morgan countians was taken to Paintsville last Saturday to aid flood-stricken people there. A van of the Keeton Wholesale Company of Grassy Creek hauled the gifts to Pikeville and delivered them to the Red Cross relief center. Walter Franklin, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, said the truck driver reported the relief center in Pikeville was "very glad to get the gifts."

Morgan countians in a quick drive on Friday of the flood week donated two wholesale company vans loads of food, clothing and bedding, which were hauled to Pikeville the same night by vans of the G. & H. Wholesale Company and Blair Wholesale Company of West Liberty.

The second drive for gifts was made early last week. Pastors and Sunday school superintendents announced the second drive in their churches and Sunday schools, asking attendants to deliver the food and clothing to their community stores. Response was good in the rural sections. And many people brought gifts to West Liberty.

Food and clothing were picked up from the community stores by local wholesale trucks and a truck of the Stafford Cleaners of West Liberty the first of last week and brought to three collection centers in West Liberty—the Christian Church, the high school book store and Blair Wholesale.

Keeton's truck gathered the gifts at the three centers Saturday and took them to Pikeville.

Grow the Same Type of Burley Again Massie Tells Morgan Farmers Here

"Use the same practices in producing Burley Tobacco which you have used during the years 1955 and 1956," Ira Massie told Morgan County tobacco farmers in a meeting in West Liberty Tuesday. Massie is a tobacco specialist from the Agricultural Experiment Station.

He told farmers that in a meeting with heads of cigarette companies he was told that the 1956 crop was a "smoker" crop from "top to bottom" of the plant. He stated that the 1955 and 1956 crops were ideal over the entire burley belt, and that a large percentage of this year's crop went to the buyers instead of the burley pool and that the pool had on hand only 300 million pounds instead of the 700 to 800 million pounds two years ago.

Massie urged farmers that in order to produce a high yield of tobacco it was necessary to duce tobacco on the same field year after year. He urged Morgan county farmers to begin now to build up two or three fields on the farm for possible tobacco fields. Many farmers in the state last year had Manfianese Toxicity and Nematodes to affect tobacco that was grown in fields throughout the year. That Fescue or Red Clover sod was the ideal rotation for tobacco. These fields could be used in a two to three year rotation for tobacco. Wh the same field is cultivated to any crop year after year the physical structure of the soil is broken down. He gave as an example a field on the Experiment Station farm which had been cultivated in tobacco every year for 52 years. Although this field had been in a cover crop following tobacco each year the physical structure of the soil was poor and that both yield and quality of tobacco did not compare favorably to that produced on a crop rotation basis.

He urged farmers to find out about the lime content of fields which had been in tobacco and that the PH should not be below 5.2. This can only be determined by a chemical soil test. Lime should only be added in the fall in small amounts he said.

Massie said that Burley tobacco is in a very favorable position in competition with flue cured tobacco, an dthat present demands practices and weather conditions had brought farmers the highest average prices in history and that such a situation does not call for a change in production practices.

He said that one heavy red crop could wipe out the advantage that the Burley grower has on the market today. He pointed out that the good grades also sold well and went to the buyers at an excellent price and that favorable price supports still existed on the good grades.

Ralph Walter Files For Commonwealth Atty.

After much thought and consideration, and after discussing the matter with many of you, I have decided to make the race for Commonwealth Attorney for this district which is composed of Morgan, Elliott and Carter Counties. I believe that I am acquainted with most of the people here in Morgan County and most of you are sufficiently acquainted with me that it is not necessary to attempt to tell you about myself. I have been practicing law here since 1949 and both my mother and father and all of their people were born and reared here in Morgan County.

The people of Morgan County have been good to me and I have tried to give good and honest service in return. I appreciate the experience I have been able to have and am fortunate to be associated with J. Blaine Nickell in the practice of law. I would like to serve you as Commonwealth Attorney. I feel that it is the duty of the Commonwealth Attorney to see that our laws are strictly enforced and to prosecute to the limit of the law all persons guilty of crimes in our county. It is of equal importance that the Commonwealth Attorney assist in the protection of the rights of all our citizens. This I promise to do to the best of my ability if nominated and elected to serve you.

I will make a strong effort to see as many of you personally as I possibly can and will greatly appreciate your support and your efforts on my behalf.

Society For Crippled Children Appoints Easter Seal Chairman

O. L. McElory, Emience, state chairman for the sponsoring Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, announced the appointment of Mrs. Helen Price Stacy of West Liberty as chairman of the 1957 Easter Seal appeal for crippled children in Morgan county.

The month-long drive opens March 21.

McElory said there are an estimated 18,000 children in the state with physical handicaps caused by diseases, accidents, birth injuries, deformities, and serious hearing loss. More are born crippled, and are disabled by disease and accidents each year.

"If we had more funds to work with, we could aid many more of these youngsters," McElory commented.

He said no other state-wide voluntary health agency has such a varied program of care and training and no other works with children crippled by so many causes.

Success is the total of many little things well done.

BIGGER RURAL DEVELOPMENT BOARD PLANNED

Aim Is To Improve County's Economic Levels of Living

The Morgan County Rural Development Committee meeting Tuesday to decide how best to activate the development program throughout the county, voted to create a countywide committee that will include representatives from all sections of the county and from all agencies in the county. The executive committee of the Rural Development Program was asked to meet soon and set up such a committee. The plan is to get representatives from all agencies, sections and groups in the county, and to have this county-wide group offer suggestions and also interest the group or section they represent in Rural Development.

Rev. James Norsworthy, chairman of the Rural Development County Committee, presided at the meeting, held in the Methodist church. Rev. J. R. Nevius spoke the invocation. Twenty-one members and interested persons attended.

They heard Mike Duff, State Extension Service coordinator of special programs, describe the plan for Rural Development.

Morgan is one of 12 counties in the Northeastern Rural Development area, and Elliott is the pilot county in the area. Two other such areas have been set up in Kentucky to take advantage of a rural development act passed by Congress last year, designed to aid low income sections in increasing the standard of living in their sections. No direct financial aid is given by federal or state agencies but all federal and state agencies are asked to provide additional personnel to assist low-income areas in building programs designed to increase the economic welfare of people.

Supt. Curt L. Davis of Elliott county is chairman of the Northeastern Rural Development Committee. Each of the 12 counties in the area has set up county committees, and a comprehensive plan to increase living standards in the area has been drafted along general lines—agricultural, industrial, educational and sociological.

The Northeastern area has made most progress of the three in Kentucky and Elliott, the pilot county, has apparently made most progress in the Northeastern area.

The Morgan Rural Development Committee has drafted suggested goals for the county and these have been approved and incorporated in the area goals.

The local committee at Tuesday's meeting decided that in addition to establishing a county-wide committee, officials and members of the executive committee should visit all meetings of organizations and interest them in the program to increase living standards and family income.

Ellis Boegs, former county agent in Floyd who has recently been named area agent in rural development to work in the 12 counties of Northeastern Kentucky, was introduced and spoke briefly.

He urged all to assist the Morgan County chapter of the Red Cross to reach its goal in the forthcoming fund drive.

Mr. House described the destruction in the upper Big Sandy area and told of the relief work done by the Red Cross. He was introduced by Walter Franklin, chairman of the Morgan County Red Cross chapter.

OBITUARY

GEVEDON

James Monroe Gevedon was born January 31, 1871, the son of Rennie and Jeston Testerman Gevedon. He died January 29, 1957, lacking two days of being 86 years old.

He attended the public schools of Morgan County and Hazel Green Academy. He taught fourteen schools in Morgan County and many writing and singing schools over a period of many years. He was also a carpenter, farmer, musician and was widely known for his writings. During the war he was supervisor of the N.Y.A. and was recognized as a leader in this work.

Although always a busy man, he never refused to participate in the activities of his community and county.

Throughout his life he had been a student of the Bible and left in his Bible many outlines on subjects of the Bible in which he was deeply interested. For four years he served as superintendent of a successful Sunday school in his community which was greatly to the upbuilding of the church and the community. He perhaps, knew more of the history of Morgan County than any other person. Before he became disabled, he was engaged in writing an autobiography which he was not able to finish.

One of his greatest interests was genealogy and he not only had a vast knowledge of his own family but had traced the genealogy of many other families. In his family Bible was found the genealogy of his own family and as a preface he had made mention of the admirable characteristics of his ancestors and closed with these words to his children: "May all my children so live and be careful that their posterity may prove as pure as they—the last and best wish of father—J. Monroe Gevedon."

He was married to Esther Chambers and to this union was born one son, Estill C. Gevedon. Later he married Della Davis and to them the following children were born:

Florella Cannoy, Scranton, Ky.; Nina Gevedon, Ashland, Ky.; Kathryn Payne, Ironton, Ohio;

P.T.A.'S INTEREST IN EDUCATION

Every person realizes that the public plays an important part in education. The power, prejudice, wisdom and justice of all interested groups tends to mold patterns of education. The progress of our schools depend upon the widespread interest of citizens in education.

The part that parents take in supporting their school is often directed through organizations. To help a community contribute effectively to public education is the work of the parent-teachers organization.

The parent-teachers organization at West Liberty has supported these things that help the pupil and the teachers to do more and they have strongly supported the band and made it better in providing uniforms and showing their interest. They have visited classrooms and provided money for each room to purchase things they needed and demonstrated to the pupils an attachment to their interest. The P.T.A. has been fortunate to have good leadership. They have not attempted to take over and direct school activities but have given their support to the things the school and the school authorities have planned.

IN OL' MORGAN

(Continued from page one) studied law while working as deputy clerk and later went to Nebraska where he became a famous judge and jurist. Another son Tom Easterling went to Philadelphia and became a printer. Some years ago he came back and drilled some oil wells on Lacy Creek and in Owsley county. A daughter, Mrs. Della Easterling Hammond, lived at the old home place where her son Herbert now lives. The Cottle post office was established in 1931 and Herbert has been postmaster since that time. His wife is the former Miss Cassie Burton, daughter of John Burton.

Mr. Hammond said he recalls that his mother told him about the time when Morgan Cavalry camped in the bottom in front of their home when she was a small girl and that at about one o'clock in the morning there was a great deal of running and noise and that the Union Army was on their way from Salyersville after Morgan's men.

They got away, however, and were overtaken in Elliott county where some skirmishes occurred. Herbert has one son and four daughters. They are Harold Hammond, Cottle; Mrs. James Elam and Mrs. Bernard Buchanan, West Liberty; Mrs. Herman Oney, Ashland, and Mrs. Glenn Lykins, Ashland.

It is thought that Tom and Joanna Easterling and William and Susan Easterling came from Wise County, Virginia, and settled on Licking River near the mouth of Jones Creek. The family were perhaps Germans who first went to England and the name was East Sterling in the beginning.

LEE CLAY MUGS FOUND IN COUNTRY STORE

Recently we came across two pottery mugs while browsing around a country store. They took our eye, because one of the mugs was imprinted in blue with the word "WRIGLEY." The other was plain. On turning the mug upside down we noted the maker was Lee Clay Products, Clearfield. We are wondering if there are other mugs of this type in the county or in adjoining counties, and if they are old.

The quality of the clay and workmanship point up the possibilities of a small pottery factory if one could be established in Morgan county.

Clay deposits have been located in this county that are of fine quality.

NEW BAND UNIFORMS ARE REALLY SHARP

For govt. basketball, many more fans should come out to see the Morgan County Blue Devils in action. The game with Grant County here Saturday night was a thriller with the Blue Devils victor by two points scored in overtime. The game was a spirit of "we've got to win" at high school games that is not noticeably present in college or professional games.

There are some who think the Blue Devils were sparked to victory Saturday night by the resplendent uniforms worn by members of the band. Plumed and feathered, braided and gilded—the band made a pleasant picture and also made good music. The band uniforms are royal blue and gold. One observer remarked that majorettes would make a good appearance on Ted Mack's amateur hour on TV after they performed in almost perfect unison as the band gave out with a rhythmic version of "Green Door."

Much credit for the band's success can go to the band director, Mrs. Betty Jo Stamper. She has a perfect sense of timing and rhythm—and, her outfit of white and gold makes a striking combination with her red hair.

WHEN'S GROUNDHOG DAY?

There's been long controversy whether Groundhog Day was Feb. 2 or Feb. 14. Orville Caskey of near Lenox, a close observer and somewhat of an authority on the habits of wild animals, comes up with the answer. Groundhog Day is not Feb. 2 but is Feb. 14; that's the day they start mating, he says. As a boy he remembers a cliff back of their home where groundhogs were seen daily, but only one at a time in winter, and in pairs after Feb. 14. His father, he remembers, could catch but a single groundhog in traps in the winter. But, come Feb. 13 he'd say, "Let's set our traps"—and then we'd catch three and four at the cliff.

• LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MORE ON PIERATT FAMILY

I note from your issue of Jan. 24 the passing of my cousin, J. W. Davis. With very great sorrow I wish to extend my sincere sympathy to his wife, Emma, and daughters, also to other relatives of the immediate family.

I recall the many pleasant times he and I enjoyed together in our boyhood days of school work, and the intense rivalry for superiority in our everyday studies, being very near the same age, with like opportunities and conditions as existed in our community at that time—"Happy Memories."

I also read in this same issue his report of the Pieratt genealogy with a great deal of interest. I do not have in my record as complete in all detail of the various members of the different families of Pieratts, but I do know from personal knowledge and contact that his report is to be commended. However, there are a few additions that I shall submit.

The record I have in part is as follows: Valentine Pieratt, born 1780, came from France with Gen. Lafayette at the age of 16 in 1776. He married Elizabeth Ayre in 1792 of Pennsylvania, later moved to Kentucky and settled where the town of Owensville, Bath county, now is situated. To them were born three children: James Pieratt, Barbara Pieratt and John Pieratt. I have no record of James or Barbara. But John Pieratt is the one given in the Davis report. He married a Maxey and settled on Grassy Creek, Morgan county. His sons—Ely, married Gillie Anne Nickell; Valentine, married Dulcena Nickell.

James (Daughters)—

John—Lila, married Lewis Murphy

Thomas—Gillie Anne, married W. B. Lykins

Silas—Annie, married Levy Kash.

I have no record of one being killed at Ivy Mountain.

Andy Thomas Pieratt, son of Ely, married Caroline Johnson, instead of Maple as given in the Davis report.

If these statements are worthy of being incorporated in the Davis report, please publish in your paper.

WILLIAM W. QUICKSALL

111W. Howry Avenue

DeLand, Florida

To The Courier—

Saw the pictures of Mrs. Tommy Oldfield and Mrs. Cecil Day and read the articles in Licking Valley Courier, also in Sunday's Courier Journal and heard the recording of them made at Lexington yesterday on radio over WHAS this morning.

Congratulations, Mrs. Oldfield and Mrs. Day for your activities in church, P.T.A. and Homemakers clubs.

My husband and I have been at White Oak church many times, mostly before the new highway 460 was through there, have traded at the stores there many times, am always happy about any improvements in Morgan.

Was especially proud to learn through the Licking Valley Courier about the organization and progress of the Sunday school at Lacy Creek, Floriss.

We have also been at church there many times, have also attended singing school at both Lacy Creek and White Oak.

Enjoy reading all news letters from these places, Matthew, Kellace and Logville.

MRS. NOAH NICKELL

Hardinsburg, Ind.

The Courier—

We are getting along just fine. Please have our paper sent to Fellsmere, Florida. We will sure be pleased to get it. We will be here till April 15. This is the most beautiful county we ever saw. We have rented a house furnished.

Not much difference in price of groceries here than up there. There are three orange trees and one grapefruit tree in our yard. It is a sight to see the groves of oranges. There is no mud here or dust or smoke. The sun shines so warm. We get a good breeze from the ocean. We have all the fish that we can eat and eight rocking chairs. If you were here we could eat oranges and rock. We can eat food here that we could not eat up there without hurting us. They have a sugar mill here where they make sugar. We went through the mill. Have been fishing twice. We have more fish than we can eat.

SCHOOL VISITS

By Bernard E. Whitt

Our country's greatest resources are its children, youth and adults who in the modern changing and advancing world must never stop learning.

The United States of today must face the problem of making good democracy and to give leadership to the liberty loving people everywhere in the world or lose our own freedom.

Great responsibility rests upon teachers and school officials to promote a service and leadership to a program of education.

A program of supervision is intended to help teachers do a better job and to improve their own teaching. Visits to the classrooms and to the one room school encourages the teacher and the children. The presence of a supervisor, the county superintendent or parents in the classroom is the best evidence to the teacher and children that others are concerned about their success and gives them encouragement and promotes interest in their school work.

Some few days ago I visited a school where 23 children were present. We began talking about story books and the bookmobile. Many of the children had read from a dozen to two dozen books. I asked them to tell me something of a book they had read and to tell the story. It was amazing how much they could tell me about the book. It developed expression and English and was a wealth of information stored in their minds. I told them the story of the "Man Without a Country." How a young man brought to trial for treason cursed his country and wished he might never hear it mentioned again and how he was sentenced to have his wish fulfilled. How the sentence was carried out and how he suffered and regretted it. The children grasped the moral of the story. They reasoned that it does not pay to do crimes and violate the laws of their country. They wanted to get the book and read it themselves.

Another thing we stress is attendance. Children are asked how many have perfect attendance and their names are carried in the paper.

Often visits to the homes and a talk with the parents help to understand why children are absent and wherever possible the school officials can do something to help the child in school; it is done.

Effective public education requires efficient schools for every child. Education for rural children should be as good as that in large cities and prepare the children to meet the ever changing world wherever they go.

MISS GAY EASTERLING, City Clerk

BLAZE
(By Virginia Sargent)
Feb. 11—Mrs. Olen Sargent and Oro Sargent started Friday to see Olen Sargent who was indicted in the Army Jan. 7 and is at Fort Knox, Ky.
People around here are very glad to hear Wendell Black as merchant at Blaze.
Mrs. Norman Fugate took their little girl, Sandra Jo to West Liberty Wednesday for treatment. Sore throat and mumps have kept several people confined in beds in this neighborhood.

The Writer had a letter from Mrs. Doris Peyton, Jr., saying they had been to Dayton, Ohio to his brother, Leonard Peyton, who's son had died and stopped on their way back and stayed one night with her brother, Taubee Sargent, who lives in Dayton.
Mr. and Mrs. McCoy Sargent had as last week end visitors Mrs. John King and children and Glen Sargent who returned to work Sunday.

Morgan County Soil Conservation District, Twelfth Annual Report 1956
To the People of Morgan County
On the activities of the Morgan County Soil Conservation District during 1956 by the District Board of Supervisors:
Dillard Murphy, Ezel, chairman
Edgar Holbrook, Blairs Mill, vice-chairman
Charlie Cottle, West Liberty, secretary-treasurer
H. L. Day, Lenox, member
Carl Whitaker, Malone, member

The Morgan County Soil Conservation District has completed its twelfth year of operation since its organization in 1944. The year 1956 was a productive year for soil and water conservation in Morgan County. In spite of reduced farm net income, farmers cooperating with the district program carried out many soil building and conserving practices. During 1956, personnel assigned to the district by the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, assisted 61 farmers in working out soil and water conservation plans for their farms covering 6,270 acres of land. To date 951 farm conservation plans covering 121,446 acres have been prepared and signed. Of these, 107 plans covering 12,515 acres have been canceled by sale or death of the owner leaving 844 active plans on 108,931 acres. District cooperators constructed 19 stock water and fish ponds on their farms, making a total of 297 to date, and they also installed 13,628 feet of tile drains making a total of 489,955 feet surveyed to date. Cooperating farmers also seeded over 2000 acres cover crops, 3400 acres of pasture and 164 acres of permanent meadow. They planted 97,000 young tree seedlings and improved 49 acres of woodland according to specification of the State Division of Forestry. The young seedling, mostly pine, poplar and black locust, were planted on 97 acres of idle, cut-over, inaccessible or badly eroded land for timber, Christmas tree production and erosion control. Robert and Walter Wentzel, Cincinnati, planted 25,000 Scotch pine seedlings on their farm at Ezel for Christmas tree production. They harvested several hundred Scotch pine this year from 5 and 6 year old stands for the Christmas market. They have placed orders for about 30,000 more Scotch pines to be planted in 1957.

More and more land owners, business and professional men are making commendable efforts to prevent forest fires, control grazing in the woodland, improve their existing woodland by thinning and release of desirable trees and to plant more acres of desirable trees for timber production and erosion control. Conservation surveys were made on 9,816 acres of land by soil scientist furnished by the Soil Conservation Service, working part time (one-fourth) with the district. The conservation (soil) surveys are really an inventory of your soil. They show soil type, steepness of slope, erosion conditions, wetness, etc., and are recorded on a land capability map which becomes part of your farm plan. This information is obtained by a visit to your farm by the soil scientist, where he takes borings with a soil auger, observations and slope determinations. The district has had the services of one Soil Conservationist throughout the year who has assisted farmers in working out soil and water conservation plans for their farms and applying and supplying practices that were planned.

In addition to the services mentioned above, the part time services of a conservation aid have been available for five months. The above mentioned personnel were furnished by the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Soil Conservation Service pays the salary of all full-time employees and the district office rent, and furnished the furniture, trucks and equipment for its personnel. The salary and travel expense of the conservation aid was paid from funds (up to 5% of the county allotment) transferred to the Soil Conservation Service by the county. Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service (ASC). His time was spent in servicing ACP practices requested by farmers through the Morgan County ASCS. Total of 118 ACP requests for both periods were received from the county ASCS office during the year. Fifty-nine of these requests were received on April 4 for the first period and fifty-nine requests were received on September 21 for the second period.

The State Division of Game and Fish furnished Sericea, hogan, and bi-color linden trees, hogan, cane and pine trees to farmers who requested it to plant on their farms for wildlife food and cover. The Division also stocked 15 farm ponds with bass and blue-gill for fish production in the county. Soil Conservation Service personnel assigned to the district have helped hold community meetings throughout the county with the Extension Service, ASC Committee and office manager, SCS Board of Supervisors, and Farmers Home Administration to explain the benefits and provisions of the Soil Bank Program to interested farmers. The district is proud of the interest manifested by the farmers pleasure to the business of farming.

The district supervisors wish to thank the State and National Associations of Soil Conservation Districts, the churches, schools, the Kiwanis Club and other civic minded groups and individuals for their effective cooperation and assistance in helping to bring into sharp focus the great and lasting work of conserving our valuable soil, water and other natural resources being carried on by Soil Conservation Districts all over the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Port Rico and the Virgin Islands.

We do greatly appreciate the cooperation and assistance given us by the various agencies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and especially the cooperation, guidance and technical assistance of the personnel of the Soil Conservation Service in carrying out so great and valuable undertaking.

Assistance from other organizations and individuals too numerous to mention is also deeply appreciated.

Although we are deeply proud of the progress made in 1956 and previous years, the supervisors of this district are looking forward to greater progress in 1957.

During the coming year some of our goals are:

1. At least 120 new district cooperators or 10% of the remaining land owners who are non-cooperators.
2. At least 48 complete soil and water conservation plans from the present district cooperators.
3. Establishment of at least 20% of the planned conservation practices.
4. The establishment of one or more practices by each cooperator.
5. Maintenance of those conservation practices already established.
6. More group action by communities and watersheds.
7. Increase emphasis on establishment of sod waterways and permanent pasture with liming, fertilization and controlled grazing.
8. More livestock production, especially beef cattle, sheep and dairying.
9. More wildlife protection, and especially more areas established for wildlife food and cover.
10. Creating more interest in woodland management and protection from fire and grazing.
11. Planting more of idle, thin and severely eroded land and cut-over forest to adapt species of trees.
12. Creating more interest in soil and water conservation by keeping the public informed on activities of the district and cooperating farmers.

Although we deeply appreciate the help and cooperation received in the past from the various agencies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and especially the Soil Conservation Service, we supervisors feel that in order to reach our present goals and to do what we feel the farmers in this district are ready and able to do we need the full-time services of a work unit conservationist a soil conservationist (farm planner), a conservation aid and at least one-half of the services of a full time soil scientist. In addition to these we feel that the district needs more and more of services of specialists such as woodland conservationists, agronomists and engineers to accelerate the program of the district. We feel that our need for a full time soil conservationist (farm planner) is occasioned by the fact that as with all worthwhile programs and projects, the officer in charge has to spend a large portion of his time with administrative matters, promotional, organizations, group and individuals, all of which are very necessary in the successful operation of a soil conservation district. Dillard Murphy, Chairman Morgan County Soil Conservation District

Eats like a hummingbird!

Like all the new '57 Fords, that sleek Sunliner up there lives on a mighty lean diet of gasoline. Big reason? Look underneath the new front-hinged hood of this over 17-foot long dreamboat. There you'll find a magnificent V-8 engine... an all-new, easier "breathing" power plant that measures fuel and air more efficiently than ever before to give you fuller combustion, greater economy. There you'll find a completely new brand of Ford TNT that's the proud result of Ford's many years of V-8 leadership. Yes, "Six" or "Eight"... the going's never been so great!

Goes like a Thunderbird!

ELKFORK

HAS ODE ON ROADS

ELKFORK, Ky., Feb. 11—By Miss Fern George—

ROADS
A road is such a curious thing:
It winds uphill and down.

It takes you through the country,
It takes you through the town.

Sometimes it's straight as it can be Sometimes it's very winding.

Sometimes it's hard to pick your way.

Sometimes it's easy finding.
Some roads may go past running

So sparkling, clean and cool.
Roads sometimes go past rows of trees.

Go past a church or school.

Roads take you far away,
Through sunshine and through rain.

But the nicest road of all, I think

Is the road back home again.

FLORRESS RURAL WRITER GIVES HER VIEWS

FLORRESS, Ky., Feb. 11—(By Nora Easterling)—Reading about the interest our Governor is taking in the flood stricken area of Kentucky, I have been wondering just what is under that broad smile Mr. Chandler wears in all his pictures. I never met Mr.
Chandler nor his wife, but there is one thing for sure; I admire Mrs. Chandler's attitude toward her Governor husband.

When our President, Ike, we love to call him, spoke his piece to Mr. Wilson for doubting some of our National Guards, Mrs. Wilson spat at the president like a cat in defense of her husband.
Lots of ladies praised her for this outburst.

But, when a reporter ask Mrs.
Happy Chandler what she would better, he'd broke my neck." Naurally we know Mrs. Chandler wasn't afraid of that, but that was her way of saying, "I don't run his business".

That's the spirit I like best in our ladies, is to feel sure their husbands or male friends can stand on their own two feet with out 'sugar and spice and everything nice' from the ladies.

Mr. Chandler, now has a chance to prove to his state just what is under that big smile. And it's for sure, Mrs. Chandler don't feel like she'll have to do his fighting for him.

We would like to see more of you back ground bucklers, snap out and be the leaders of our state.

We are in sympathy with the family of Mrs. Carl Johnston, who departed this life Saturday. Mrs.
Johnston was the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Tom Cox, deceased, and was raised at Florress. We remember her as Nancy Jane Cox Johnston. May God bless and keep her family.

Mrs. Miranda Easterling, retired postmaster at Florress, don't seem like a shut-in since she has a new wheel chair and keeps up with the times by reading and watching TV.

Mrs. Minnie Hamilton Elam is very ill at this time.

Owls Kill Song Birds
Kentucky's song bird (The Cardinal) and red birds are plentiful in Honeymoon Holar. But they have a bitter enemy. We heard a rattling on our screen door Saturday morning before daylight.
Mr. Screech Owl was seated in our front yard with: our earlies rising red bird. He took out in the dark. Mr. owl probably was hungry, but I would rather he didn't steal our red birds. Sixty dollar fine, Mr. Owl.
